

losing satellite radio would be a great loss, with all the various stations and vast info you can receive i would find it hard to drive without another innovative company trying to be squashed by the big boys it is beginning to be the american way. a terrible way to go. what happens to free enterprise